ROTARIANS ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING TODAY

CAMP FIRE GIRLS APPEAR BEFORE CLUB IN CEREMONY

UNDER DIRECTION OF MISS EULA
MICHAEL EXPLAIN TENETS
OF ORDER

GROUP OF VISITORS PRESENT FROM NEWLY PROPOSED RO- TARY CLUB AT STAPLES

Brainerd Rotary today held one of the most enthusiastic meetings of its history and the attendance was close to 100 per cent, in fact may be 100 per cent when the three absentees are accounted for and state they have attended Rotary meetings wherever they visited.

Dr. R. A. Beise presided. The group of visitors was large, including F. R. N. Anderson, R. N. Gardner, W. H. Johnson, Bert Dower, Clyde Miller of Staples; W. H. Taylor, former Brainerd man, now of Le Sueur; Miss Eula Michael, city nurse; Dr. F. Osten-Sacken, A. M., Ph. D., official lecturer of the Sheldon School of International Business Science Society, Chicago; P. S. Hollie of Chicago; H. H. Ziegler of Junction City, Kansas; Walter Cobban, Minneapolis; Fred Boone, Manhattan, Kansas; John A. Hoffbauer of the Dispatch.

Secretary L. R. Tanner reported on the Detroit, Minn., meeting which was attended by Dr. R. A. Beise, H. F. Michael and himself. The spirit of fellowship predominated, said Mr. Tanner, and the success attained was a triumph for Governor Black and Governor-elect McClinton. Detroit is the youngest club in the district and it set a pace in the entertainment of the delegates. Every club in the district was represented, some traveling 400 miles to be present. Mr. Michael had a prominent place on the program.

Dr. Beise thanked the club members for attending today and for the high percentage of attendance being achieved. Brainerd seemed sure of second place in the district for attendance records and might even crowd Moorhead out of first place.

R. T. Campbell reported on the visitors present.

Supt W. C. Cobb spoke on "The Trend of Education in the Grade School". The great problem of America was not concerned with high schools, colleges or universities, but with the grade schools. Colleges and universities have furnished the leadership in civic and government lines. The high school, said the speaker, is the peoples college and every town is proud of that institution.

The real problem of America is that of elementary education, that is the grades from 1st to 8th. The great mass of children get an education up to or below the 8th grade. The war brought out that the level of intelligence in America was not a high one. Some thought the schools were not turning out good graduates. But the point is, not all children of America gain school privileges. This is particularly striking throughout the south, in the pioneer districts of the north and in many of the rural sections.

The quality of teachers is improving, but the fact remains, said the speaker, that more than half the force in Minnesota has not had a high school education.

Camp Fire Girls

Under the direction of Miss Eula Michael, the Camp Fire Girls group of the Methodist church, put on interesting ceremonies. Miss Michael explained the purposes of the organization.

"Brainerd", said the speaker, "had been thinking only in terms of boys. There were girls also to consider"

There is another camp besides the Methodist group and two more camps are in process of organization. As she called on various Camp Fire Girls, they gave the laws of the order, explained qualifications, while Miriam Michael told the significance of the ceremonial gown and beads worn. A council fire was demonstrated and the ceremonies present-

C. L. Motl, of the state highway department, formerly county highway engineer of Crow Wing county is president of the Minnesota Surveyors and Engineers Society, and the division of the state into districts is his idea, in order to bring about a closer relation between engineers who are working in the same locality.

Among the visitors at the Brainerd meeting Saturday will be Mr. Motl, Roy Ellier, division engineer from Bemidji under whom this section of the state highway is maintained, Charles A. Forbes, holding a similar position in the Duluth district, and P. F. Stary, maintenance superintendent of Worthington, Minnesota.

The supply ship Cuyama, with Rear Admiral James V. The Cardinal piled up on the rocks late yesterday afternoon and it was apparent she might become a total loss. The Discovery answered her calls for aid and met the same fate. Early today radio advices received here indicated that the Cuyama removed the crews of the two vessels safely in small boats. A total of 135 men were aboard the two ships.

'IMPROPER CONDUCT OF SCHOOL AFFAIRS'

SUPERINTENDENT ALEXANDER OF HIBBING SCHOOLS SUS- PENDED ON CHARGE

(By United Press)
Hibbing, Minn., June 8—C. C. Alexander, superintendent of schools, was suspended by the board of education last night for "improper conduct of school affairs."

The board was divided 3 to 3 on a motion for permanent removal of Alexander.

Irregularities in payrolls were alleged by L. L. McNulty, who led the attack on Alexander. He charged warrants have been drawn in favor of three teachers who are not now and never have been on duty. These warrants are alleged to have been endorsed and cashed by Mr. Alexander.

The suspended superintendent charged he is a victim of a "dirty frame-up" and said he will be able to prove it. The case is now in the hands of County Attorney Philip M. Stone, and will be presented to a special grand jury during the present term of district court.

J. W. Richards, director for the school district, was named acting superintendent.

25,000 GALLONS BOTTLED-IN-BOND CANADIAN LIQUOR

HAS CROSSED THE BORDER INTO NEW YORK SINCE SMITH SIGNED REPEALER

$100,000 BOOZE ENTERING THE UNITED STATES DAILY IN THIS AREA

By C. M. McCaleb
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright 1923 by United Press)

Malone, N. Y., June 8.—Twenty-five thousand gallons of bottled-in-bond Canadian liquor has crossed the border into New York since Governor Smith signed the state prohibition law repealer here a week ago.

$100,000 worth of booze is entering the United States every day in this area. This figure was given me by the "boss" of a liquor smuggling organization as I entered his automobile at a point near DeWittville, Quebec, and he made ready to run over the line with fifteen cases of Scotch intended for sale in the shadow of Albany Hill, where New York's laws are made and repealed.

Two hundred to four hundred motor cars are engaged in the traffic, my informant said. "Packer" experts placed the fifteen dozen quarts carefully brought up in straw wrapped bottles so as to use every available space in the car. The driver even displayed an extra spring to help carry the load. The 25,000 gallons crossed the border at a point on the international frontier only a few miles north of Malone. This estimate does not include the vast amount said to be crossing the St. Lawrence from Ontario, despite that province's dry law. It does not take in the cargoes which enter Vermont.

At existing bootleg prices, this means a gross intake of $800,000 a week. The cost at the Canadian supply houses—again quoting the present market—is approximately half, leaving about $400,000 a week to pay transportation expenses and other overhead and provide a profit for those engaged in this highly-organized illegal smuggling traffic.

There was nothing particularly thrilling about my ride on the bootleggers car. Instead of feeling that I was in with a band of outlaws and buccaners, it seemed more as if I was getting a view of an efficient, smooth running transportation business.

"This liquor cost $562.50, at the rate of $37.50 a case," said the chief bootlegger, as the packers worked with the bottles in their straw-wrapped overcoats. "We will get $75 a case for the load, delivered."

"We can get rye from our source of supply at $31.50 a case. At present price, we can sell it for $72 a case. Our big problems are economical transportation, reduction of expenses, increase of the demand, and sale of the goods in the best market."

When the load was completed, we started on our expedition. The route taken from DeWittville ran south to a point on the border, passing through a series of country roads. On the way we passed four other cars going in the same direction. Two were travelling together, carrying a big shipment. The trip was made at a moderate rate of speed, at no time exceeding 30 miles an hour. This was after the border had been left fifteen miles behind and we had reached Rouse's Point—the Malone state road east of Burke. Then we traversed more lonely country roads for another fifteen miles until the state highway was in sight just below Whippleville. A big truck which we had seen after crossing the border was being "unloaded" about four miles east of Chateau Gay. Five men were carrying the cargo of bottles across a field a quarter of a mile to three smaller automobiles. They

FRANCE SENDS NOTE TO GERMANY ASKING RESISTANCE CEASE

(By United Press)
Paris, June 8—France sent to Germany a strongly worded note demanding that resistance to the inter-allied military control commission cease immediately.

Premier Poincare will confer with other Allies regarding the divisibility of replying to the latest German reparations offer, but in the meantime has made it clear to Germany that the latter's policy of sabotage and resistance must end before any agreement can be reached.

The inter-allied commission will resume at once consideration of German military organizations. French and Belgian officials will participate.

If the occupation of the Ruhr continues, Germany disclaims responsibility for possible attacks upon commissioners.

The French cabinet will meet tomorrow to discuss the reparations situation.

WISCONSIN'S BLUE LAWS

NO DANCING, BASEBALL, THEA- TRES, MOVIES ON SUN- DAYS

(By United Press)
Madison, Wis., June 8—Wisconsin's blue laws which prohibit dancing, baseball, theatres, movies and all other forms of work or recreation on Sunday, will remain on the statute books.

The senate today killed 18 to 2 the Grahn bill passed by the assembly liberalizing the old 1847 law to the extent of allowing theatres and ball games on Sunday. Half a dozen senators declared that it was best to leave the unenforced laws technically in effect, so that public control could be brought into control if entertainments disturbed the sanctity of the sabbath.

Enraged Bull Charges Airplane; Fliers Crash Into Telephone Pole

Malvern, Iowa, June 8—Two aviators flying from Detroit, Mich., to Texas, were forced to dodge an enraged bull when they came down to reconnoiter for a landing place on the fair grounds here.

Even before there was a chance to reach the machine, the bull charged in its direction, and leaped as high as he could in an effort to smash the air bird. Several times the bull raced to where he thought the airmen were about to alight, and in a final attempt to get away from the danger the machine crashed into a telephone pole and was damaged.

The aviator was unhurt, as the pole was outside the field bossed by the bull.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN CULVERT

(By United Press)
Youngstown, O., June 8—A fashionably dressed woman's body was taken from beneath a culvert here early today, following receipt of an anonymous note to police.

Marks on the body indicated the woman had fought desperately with her slayer, Deputy Sheriff Donahay said.

Donahay believes it to be a "plain case of murder" and that the body was placed in its watery crypt some time after the slaying.

The body was clad in a gray dress, gray shoes and stockings, and a gray fur.

Handwriting experts were immediately put to work on the anonymous letter and detectives began running down several clues, including the mysterious disappearance of a woman doctor last week.

The planes will make a limited number of flights at a nominal charge. "What rowboats are not in use by guests will be available at a nominal charge."

"We will be glad to have you with us and will do all we can to make things pleasant for you", said Mr. Hawkins.

Flag Day

The Flag Day exercises will be in charge of the officers of the lodge and will be exemplified in the open air, with the beautiful scenery as a background.

There will be huge stumps or mounds of boughs to serve as the various altars in the ritualistic ceremony, thus bringing all the exercises close to nature.

The house, social and community welfare committee will have charge of the picnic and will shortly motor to Breezy Point to conclude various arrangements for the picnic. These picnics bring an attendance from 800 to 1,000, that number being last registered at Rocky Point, Gull lake, in 1921 and Serpent lake, Crosby, in 1922.

EXPENDITURE OF TRIBAL FUNDS UPHELD

(By United Press)
Washington, June 8.—Expenditures of tribal funds of Chippewa Indians in Minnesota by the Interior Department has been upheld by the District of Columbia court of appeals.

The decision sustained lower courts in dismissing a complaint by John G. Morrison and other Indians against the secretary of the Interior. The suit was brought to take out of the department's control all lands, timber, money and other property of the Indians. It was also sought to transfer all administrative activities relating to Indian property.

Tokio, June 8.—Baron Goto, representing the Japanese foreign office, today held an extended conference with J. Joffe, representative of Russia, at which they discussed possible resumption of Russo-Japanese negotiations for a trade agreement and recognition of the Soviet government.

25,000 GALLONS BOTTLED-IN-BOND CANADIAN LIQUOR

HAS CROSSED THE BORDER INTO NEW YORK SINCE SMITH
SIGNED REPEALER

$100,000 BOOZE ENTERING THE UNITED STATES DAILY IN THIS AREA

By C. M. McCaleb
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
(Copyright 1923 by United Press)

Malone, N. Y., June 8.—Twenty-five thousand gallons of bottled-in-bond Canadian liquor has crossed the border into New York since Governor Smith signed the state prohibition law repealer here a week ago.

$100,000 worth of booze is entering the United States every day in this area. This figure was given me by the "boss" of a liquor smuggling organization as I entered his automobile at a point near DeWittville, Quebec, and he made ready to run over the line with fifteen cases of Scotch intended for sale in the shadow of Albany Hill, where New York's laws are made and repealed.

Two hundred to four hundred motor cars are engaged in the traffic, my informant said. "Packer" experts placed the fifteen dozen quarts carefully brought up in straw wrapped bottles so as to use every available space in the car. The driver even displayed an extra spring to help carry the load. The 25,000 gallons crossed the border at a point on the international frontier only a few miles north of Malone. This estimate does not include the vast amount said to be crossing the St. Lawrence from Ontario, despite that province's dry law. It does not take in the cargoes which enter Vermont. At existing bootleg prices, this means a gross intake of $800,000 a week. The cost at the Canadian supply houses—again quoting the present market—is approximately half, leaving about $400,000 a week to pay transportation expenses and other overhead and provide a profit for those engaged in this highly-organized illegal smuggling traffic.

There was nothing particularly thrilling about my ride on the bootleggers car. Instead of feeling that I was in with a band of outlaws and buccaners, it seemed more as if I was getting a view of an efficient, smooth running transportation business.

"This liquor cost $562.50, at the rate of $37.50 a case," said the chief bootlegger, as the packers worked with the bottles in their straw-wrapped overcoats. "We will get $75 a case for the load, delivered."

"We can get rye from our source of supply at $31.50 a case. At present price, we can sell it for $72 a case. Our big problems are economical transportation, reduction of expenses, increase of the demand, and sale of the goods in the best market."

When the load was completed, we started on our expedition. The route taken from DeWittville ran south to a point on the border, passing through a series of country roads. On the way we passed four other cars going in the same direction. Two were travelling together, carrying a big shipment. The trip was made at a moderate rate of speed, at no time exceeding 30 miles an hour. This was after the border had been left fifteen miles behind and we had reached Rouse's Point—the Malone state road east of Burke. Then we traversed more lonely country roads for another fifteen miles until the state highway was in sight just below Whippleville. A big truck which we had seen after crossing the border was being unloaded about four miles east of Chateau Gay. Five men were carrying the cargo of bottles across a field a quarter of a mile to three smaller automobiles. They

(By United Press)
Paris, June 8.—France sent to Germany a strongly worded note demanding that resistance to the inter-allied military control commission cease immediately.

Premier Poincare will confer with other Allies regarding the desirability of replying to the latest German reparations offer, but in the meantime has made it clear to Germany that the latter's policy of sabotage and resistance must end before any agreement can be reached.

The inter-allied commission will resume at once consideration of German military organizations. French and Belgian officials will participate.

If the occupation of the Ruhr continues, Germany disclaims responsibility for possible attacks upon commissioners.

The French cabinet will meet tomorrow to discuss the reparations situation.

WISCONSIN'S BLUE LAWS

NO DANCING, BASEBALL, THEATRES, MOVIES ON SUNDAYS

(By United Press)
Madison, Wis., June 8.—Wisconsin's blue laws which prohibit dancing, baseball, theatres, movies and all other forms of work or recreation on Sunday, will remain on the statute books.

The senate today killed 18 to 2 the Grahn bill passed by the assembly liberalizing the old 1847 law to the extent of allowing theatres and ball games on Sunday. Half a dozen senators declared that it was best to leave the unenforced laws technically in effect, so that public control could be brought into control if entertainments disturbed the sanctity of the Sabbath.

Enraged Bull Charges Airplane; Fliers Crash Into Telephone Pole

Malvern, Iowa, June 8.—Two aviators flying from Detroit, Mich., to Texas, were forced to dodge an enraged bull when they came down to reconnoiter for a landing place on the fair grounds here.

Even before there was a chance to reach the machine, the bull charged in its direction, and leaped as high as he could in an effort to smash the air bird. Several times the bull raced to where he thought the airmen were about to alight, and in a final attempt to get away from the danger the machine crashed into a telephone pole and was damaged.

The aviator was unhurt, as the pole was outside the field bossed by the bull.

WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN CULVERT

(By United Press)
Youngstown, O., June 8.—A fashionably dressed woman's body was taken from beneath a culvert here early today, following receipt of an anonymous note to police.

Marks on the body indicated the woman had fought desperately with her slayer, Deputy Sheriff Donahay said.

Donahay believes it to be a "plain case of murder" and that the body was placed in its watery crypt some time after the slaying.

The body was clad in a gray dress, gray shoes and stockings, and a gray fur.

Handwriting experts were immediately put to work on the anonymous letter and detectives began running down several clues, including the mysterious disappearance of a woman doctor last week.

FLAG DAY SERVICE ALSO TO BE HELD ON THE SAME DATE

HOUSE, SOCIAL AND COMMUNITY

CHARGE OF DAY

OFFICERS WILL TAKE PART IN RITUALISTIC CEREMONIES
OF FLAG DAY

The Elks annual picnic and the observance of Flag Day will be held at Breezy Point Lodge, Sunday, June 24th, according to action taken at the regular meeting of Brainerd lodge.

The offer of Manager T. E. Hawkins of Breezy Point Lodge was accepted and included the use of the pine grove located near the air field for the basket picnic. He will arrange to have picnic tables set up and also provide for preparing hot coffee. Should any desire to take their meals at the cafe he would be pleased to have them do so.

"We will also try and arrange to have two cottages to be used as dressing rooms for men and women desiring to take a dip in the lake," wrote Mr. Hawkins.

The planes will make a limited number of flights at a nominal charge. What rowboats are not in use by guests will be available at a nominal charge.

"We will be glad to have you with us and will do all we can to make things pleasant for you," said Mr. Hawkins.

Flag Day

The Flag Day exercises will be in charge of the officers of the lodge and will be exemplified in the open air, with the beautiful scenery as a background.

There will be huge stumps or mounds of boughs to serve as the various altars in the ritualistic ceremony, thus bringing all the exercises close to nature.

The house, social and community welfare committee will have charge of the picnic and will shortly motor to Breezy Point to conclude various arrangements for the picnic. These picnics bring an attendance from 800 to 1,000, that number being last registered at Rocky Point, Gull lake, in 1921 and Serpent lake, Crosby, in 1922.

Report on Valedictorian Medals

The five gold medals presented by the Elks to the valedictorians of the accredited high school in their jurisdiction evoked a world of interest. Letters were read from the recipients expressing their hearty appreciation of the gifts.

Dr. A. K. Cohen, chairman of the committee, reported on the exercises held in conjunction with the presentation of the medals in Brainerd, Aitkin, Pine River and Staples. Tonight Representative Edward P. Scallon will present the Crosby-Iron-ton medal to Miss Anna Zontelli. A number of Brainerd Elks will motor to Crosby to attend the high school graduation exercises.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered C. L. Burnett, the local jeweler, and Rentz Brothers manufacturing jewelers of Minneapolis, who entered into the spirit of the occasion, gave freely of their time and experience and assisted the Elks in making the medal so beautiful and the occasion so impressive that it bids fair to become an Elks' institution throughout the state. The designer, Mr. Rentz, is an Elk of Minneapolis No. 44. Letters of appreciation were ordered sent the two jewelers.

Sick and Relief Committee

The sick and relief committee, Brothers E. J. Quinn, Fred Allison and C. E. Peabody will have aids in every Elks town and community of the large jurisdiction to assist them in reporting cases.

SPIDER NOT REALLY INSECT

Fundamental Difference Which Has Been Recognized by Those Who Have Studied the Subject.

Spiders and their near relatives, the scorpions, are much more closely related to lobsters than they are to true insects. Spiders and insects are both small, both have a number of legs, and both appear superficially alike. The differences between them, however, are of a major sort.

First, as you will see if you examine one, a spider has no head. All real insects have heads. Herein lies a most fundamental difference. A spider's face comes directly to the thorax, like that of a crawfish. Every insect has eyes, both compound and simple. The compound eyes are usually large, occupying half or more of the entire head. Between them, in what would be the middle of the forehead, are three simple eyes. Spiders have eight (in some species only six) simple eyes. Each one is fixed and can see in one direction only. Some look forward; some sideways, and some upward, so that spiders are not blind by any means.

Cat's Advantages.

A cat is unable to see in perfect darkness, but gets about more easily than other animals on account of its whiskers or feelers, and its surefootedness.

SPIDER NOT REALLY INSECT

Fundamental Difference Which Has Been Recognized by Those Who Have Studied the Subject.

Spiders and their near relatives, the scorpions, are much more closely related to lobsters than they are to true insects. Spiders and insects are both small, both have a number of legs, and both appear superficially alike. The differences between them, however, are of a major sort.

First, as you will see if you examine one, a spider has no head. All real insects have heads. Herein lies a most fundamental difference. A spider's face comes directly to the thorax, like that of a crawfish. Every insect has eyes, both compound and simple. The compound eyes are usually large, occupying half or more of the entire head. Between them, in what would be the middle of the forehead, are three simple eyes. Spiders have eight (in some species only six) simple eyes. Each one is fixed and can see in one direction only. Some look forward; some sideways, and some upward, so that spiders are not blind by any means.

Cat's Advantages.

A cat is unable to see in perfect darkness, but gets about more easily than other animals on account of its whiskers or feelers, and its surefootedness.

Poet Well Rewarded.

The highest price ever paid for a poem was 6,000 golden crowns paid to Sammarzo by the citizens of Venice for his eulogy of their city—a poem of six lines only.

RICARDO MARTIN

TO SING HERE

World's Greatest Tenor Will Open
BRAINERD MUSICAL CLUB
Season

A WONDERFUL RARE TREAT

BRAINERD TO SHOW ITS APPRECIATION
By Taxing Capacity of Park
Theatre

At a meeting of the Musical Club Board Wednesday evening, it was decided to have Ricardo Martin the world's greatest tenor open the season next fall. One of the board members said that the last time she heard him was in the Hippodrome, New York, at a Sunday concert. That great building was packed to the limit, and the audience expressed its enthusiasm in numerous recalls. Of course New York hears Ricardo Martin in grand opera roles every season, but that doesn't lessen its appreciation of him as a concert singer. Brainerd has never had this opportunity before and probably never will again, and no doubt Brainerd will show its appreciation by taxing the capacity of the opera house. The only regret is that it hasn't a greater capacity, as the large number who will be admitted on their Musical Club membership tickets will more than half fill it, and music lovers in neighboring towns should be given the opportunity to take advantage of so rare a treat.

On account of placing this first-class artist in St. Cloud, Little Falls and several other neighboring cities, Mr. Culbertson was able to offer him at a price, which, as one of the board members expressed it: "is a good deal for the Musical Club to pay, but it's cheap for Ricardo Martin."

The two other artists for the year have each won their way into the hearts of Brainerd music lovers. They are: Miss Vera Poppy, cellist, and Edna Swanson Ver Haar, soprano. Never, in the history of the Musical Club, has such a program of Artists' Recitals been included in the price of the membership ticket.

On account of the unusual merit of the first recital, which will be given in October, it was decided to let this serve as the formal opening of the club.

After the business of the meeting had been transacted, there was an informal discussion of the Chautauqua program. Appreciation was expressed regarding its excellence and variety, and all the members of the board were urged to help make it a success. As several were expecting guests for that week, it was suggested that at least part of their entertainment include a visit to Chautauqua. In the southern part of the state, it is customary to make Chautauqua week home-coming week and the whole town keeps open house at that time. So it seems very appropriate that Brainerd's home-coming week and Chautauqua should coincide.

With such a popular and varied summer program as that offered by Chautauqua, and the promise of such an excellent musical program next winter, Brainerd seems to be assured of high class entertainment during the coming year.

Alliteration Record.

Miss Lora Whitmore, register of deeds, comes of a family of nine children. And the names in the family are all very similar. When the first three children arrived they were named in succession, Dora, Cora and Nora. This caused some comment in the neighborhood and a friend of the parents said: "That works all right for three children, but you are liable to run out of names that sound similar, if you have any more." Apparently this put the parents on their mettle, because they solved the problem nicely. The next addition to the family was a pair of twins, a boy and a girl. So they were named Flora and Mora. After this there were four other girls born and they were promptly named Ora, Zora, Lora and Clara. If any family can beat this record for alliteration, step up and prove it!—Columbus (Kan.) Advocate.

"Yes. It's customary, isn't it, for the bride and groom to exchange gifts? Give me something pretty. Here's my present now." And she threw on the desk her father's check for $10,000. "Father wants to go into partnership with you," she explained. "Go up to the house tonight and fix it up and listen to the lecture he is going to give you on overexpansion."

That's about all concerning Sandford and Matilda. Their married life was very happy, although Governor Hinton did insist upon naming their first boy Cornelius and their first girl Cornelia.

Not Bad Advice.

Pay as you go; if you can't pay, don't go. Try this plan a year and see if it does not produce greater comfort of mind than the opposite one of running in debt.—Exchange.

HIS REWARD

By MOLLIE MATHER

(Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

"JUDITH!" cried grandmother's voice, shrill and imperative.

The girl, lying prone on the balcony floor, crept closer to the railings. Grandmother, peering out into the darkness, went into the house, apparently satisfied that her charge was not there.

Judith laughed softly, then sighed. Douglas was so long in coming.

It was wearisome to wait thus, night after night, for the mere comforting assurance of seeing him come up the garden path to pass into his study; there to remain reading until long after sleep had sealed Judith's blue eyes.

Twice lately her guardian had asked the girl, perplexedly, what was the matter. "You are so silent when with me; so constrained, dear," he told her, gently.

Douglas' friend, John Tabor, spoke often of an old love affair which had, disappointingly, left the adored guardian of Judith a confirmed bachelor.

In Douglas Manning's library there were few new books, the ones there accumulated during his father's time.

In this library Judith found "Saint Elmo" to read, and other tales of standard fiction, where heroes were older and wiser than a new generation.

When she had returned to the old Manning home Douglas had been surprised at her advent into womanhood.

Since that time, two years ago, Judith had learned the art of homekeeping and Douglas, returning from frequent business trips, was always pleased over the girl's management and happy in her welcome.

But this love that had entered her heart was a serious and perplexing problem, to be constantly considered, and Judith found it impossible, no matter how hard she might try, to transfer that love to the altogether suitable Bob Gates, or other would-be suitors.

Douglas Manning, coming presently, stood for a moment on the moonlight, unconscious of his watcher. The moon shone on the whitening places in his dark hair, on his fine upraised face. He picked a rose carefully; then, with an impulse, Judith leaned forward on her balcony and called to him. A quick light of pleasure crossed the man's face and he tossed the flower up to her.

"Come down for a few moments, sleepy head," he said.

Granny grumbled as Judith passed out through the porch. "There is dew at night," Granny warned.

"And roses," the girl laughed back. Douglas looked very tired in the white light that glorified the porch vines. "If you were not always here," he told her, "I think sometimes that I should run away. Business is wearing and the long ride out from the city would be unbearably lonely if you were not at the end of the journey."

Judith earnestly regarded him. "Douglas," she asked, "do I, then, in a way, repay your faithfulness? You will never know how grateful I am for that care. Often I wonder about it—you must have been a very young man, Douglas, when you brought me from abroad. So you brought us back to your great home and acted as guardian over my affairs, as my mother would have wished you to do. You and she were playmates here, in this town, as children, Mr. Tabor says, and when she went abroad for a year everyone thought she was to come back as your wife. Is that true, Douglas? You cannot think how much I want to know."

"I did not want to tell you all the truth, Judith, dear," he said, "but as you have begun to wonder—well, yes, I did love your mother. She was the great fact in my life, from our first childish days at school. And her father and mine were agreed regarding our marriage later. So, upon that condition, your grandfather left to his daughter Judith his entire fortune. If she refused to marry me—for, of course, it was understood that I would ask the question—then all his money would go to an institution. Judith agreed, in good faith. Then, because she was very young, and I also, it was decided that she should go abroad for a year's travel and study. At the end of the year her father and I were to go to bring her back, when she would become my wife. When we found Judith she had broken faith with me and had married, secretly, a humble young man whom your grandfather, in his pride and humiliation, angrily disapproved. Judith hoped that, through her father's affection for me, I might be able to influence him regarding a part of her legacy, at least, now sadly needed. But your grandfather left her without a parting word and the money was willed to an institution. I was sorry for the girl. I promised still to be her friend.

"When, some time later, I was notified of the double tragedy which left you an orphaned baby, why I went to make amends for my innocent part in the decree which lost your mother the money which might have educated her child and made it happier. I brought you to my home, with your father's mother to care for you—as she could not in her humble home abroad. And through the years I have been more than rewarded by your sweet presence, which has seemed, in a measure, a reality of the old dream—which could not come true. So like that other Judith are you, dear, in appearance, in voice, in every appealing charm, until I long and long that the years might fall from me and I might have the right to claim the happiness at last."

Swiftly young Judith came to lift the man's bowed head. "The years," she said, "have made you what you are. It is so that I love you, Douglas."

RAMON NOVARRO

The New Sheik Gives His Opinion of Lovers Union

Ramon Novarro, the dashing screen actor, who plays the role of Ivan de Maupin in Rex Ingram's production of "Trifling Women," showing at the New Park on Saturday and Sunday, showed a great deal of interest in a newspaper clipping about the formation of a Lovers' Co-operative Union, with fifteen hundred men and women already registered. Mr. Novarro feels that this society will do great harm instead of good.

"It is easy to foresee the day, if such unions are successful, when the girls are going to standardize their rates for everything. I've been thinking up a tentative list which might go as follows:

One kiss; evening at the movies.
One kiss (extra portion); theatre.
Soul kiss; dinner, theatre and dancing afternoon.

One hand squeeze; chocolate soda.
Kiss on forehead; orange phosphate.

AMERICAN GENEROSITY WITHOUT VISIBLE REWARD

AUGUST first will see the conclusion of the relief work of the American relief organization in Russia. At that time the commission will have seen two years of active service amongst the starving people of an unfortunate country.

The work of the American relief organization in Russia has been all the more meritorious because the governments of the two countries have had nothing in common through the period of the commission's activity. When it was found that, as a result of the World war, there was untold suffering in Europe, Americans very generously responded to the call for aid and under the direction of Herbert Hoover an organization was perfected that has saved millions of lives. The American congress voted $20,000,000 to aid the work of the organization and through two years this splendid relief work has been pursued with diligence and thoroughness. Farmers of the United States sent car loads of foodstuffs to be shipped to the people in distress and the public contributed generously to the fund to be devoted to European relief.

There may be disappointment in this country because the generosity of our people has not been rewarded in any way. The powers that be in Russia criticize the government that has so generously contributed to the needs of Russian peasants. These leaders have in no way attempted to bring the Russian government into accord with the government of the United States. Because of this, there are those who have felt that the Russian nation is unappreciative of the generosity of Americans.

It is essential that those who hold the view that Russia has not felt thankful remember that there is a distinction between the Russian government and the Russian people. It is not known to what extent the Russian peasants are behind the present controlling forces in their country, and even though they may be ready to back up the present order they will not forget the generosity of the American government and people. The people of the United States have thrown their bread upon the waters and after many days it will return to them. Not always is there a visible reward for kindness and assistance, but there is a higher order, that makes and unmakes governments, that decrees that in the end virtue finds its reward and generosity yields certain returns. The Russian peasants have seen that America—accused of being capitalistic—can be charitable and helpful, even when the government of the country in which people are aided is not in sympathy with the aims and purposes of the United States.

GERMAN LANGUAGE MAY BE TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS

At a time when the feelings of people were running high, certain decisions were made effective in some states that have been ruled out by the United States supreme court. One of these prevented the teaching of the German language in the schools.

Those who attempted to keep their heads during the war realized that if the teaching of the German language was wrong during the war it was wrong before the war and would be wrong after the war was over. These also concluded that if the teaching of German universities was censurable during the war it was subject to the same censure before the war and would be censurable after the war.

However, even the legislatures of some states, carried away by the wave of passion that swept through this country, passed laws prohibiting the teaching of the German language in American schools. The United States supreme court has found that such laws are unconstitutional and has ruled that the German language may be taught in the schools of the several states.

"The decision establishes finally the right of various sects and individuals under constitutional guaranties to give religious and other instructions in languages other than English." So long as there are several languages these languages may be taught and it is advantageous that they should be taught. But while this is true it is highly desirable that in this country there should be but one language recognized as the language of the people, and for use in this country the English language should be supreme. The teaching of a foreign language in certain groups is detrimental if that language becomes the vehicle of expression within the group. This tends to set such groups apart from the main currents of American life. The teaching of English should come first; English should be used commonly and other languages occasionally.

It would seem from reading this ruling that the decision of the United States supreme court will rule out any legislation enacted by the several states to suppress what are commonly known as parochial schools. One of the arguments used against putting a ban on the teaching of foreign languages claimed that they were essential to the task of imparting religious instruction to the pupils. This argument will be used when the legislation banning parochial schools is heard by the supreme court and that court will decide the case on its merits and under the constitution.

THE HEALTH FOUNDATION

AFTER reading of the millions of dollars given or pledged by the Rockefeller Foundation during 1922, for the promotion of institutions working to preserve the health of people in all parts of the earth, one is inclined to think that it might well be named THE HEALTH FOUNDATION.

In this report George E. Vincent, president of the foundation and formerly president of the University of Minnesota, ably defines the position of the modern physician and surgeon. In dealing with the attitude of the medical profession Dr. Vincent points out that its membership is intent upon discovering new methods and new facts. This can be done only by experimenting, and he deprecates the attitude of anti-vivisectionists who would seek to prevent the profession from experimenting upon animals for the purpose of discovering means of saving human lives.

The president of the foundation points out that the modern doctor holds to no creed which he considers fixed and unalterable. He is committed to no "pathy" and knows no panacea. He is asking for facts that are proved by experiment and he does not accept more personal opinion or unverified assertion. Dr. Vincent deprecates the "almost benighted ignorance" which confronts the medical profession even in this nominally enlightened age.

He shows that the medical profession cannot accept the mystical, the supernatural or the unverifiable in dealing with physical disorders. It insists upon demonstrated physical facts.

The Rockefeller Foundation is doing a splendid work in advancing the science of medicine, a work whose benefits are enjoyed even by the critics of the foundation and the medical institutes which it encourages and endows.

GERMANY is attempting once more to buy off the French, but there seems to be little hope of France accepting for France holds the industries that must provide the payments.

MADE THE ENGLISHMAN GASP

Amusing Error Which American Ambassador to England Took With Customary Good Nature.

In his book of reminiscences Mr. John Drew, the famous actor, tells this amusing incident that occurred under his own eye at one of those reconciling celebrations of the Fourth of July which have for years been held in London with both Englishmen and Americans in attendance.

After the two national anthems were sung the supper room opened, and the people flocked in and found seats for themselves. Lewis and I were sitting next to an Englishman who was evidently very hungry and very thirsty. Mr. Phelps, the American minister, walked into the room and looked round over the tables. He wore side whiskers and to a chance observer looked not unlike a maitre d'hotel. The Englishman, not knowing who he was, mistook him for one of the waiters and asked him to bring him a bottle of Apollinaris. He pointed to a bottle nearby that had been opened. Phelps good-naturedly took the bottle and put it down in front of the Englishman and started to walk away.

The Englishman was late because Phelps had not filled his glass. He reproached him and as he did so, stood up and called to the retreating figure: "What do you mean by this? And who are you?"

Phelps turned and answered: "My name is Phelps. I am the American minister at the Court of St. James's."

The Englishman fell back in his chair so violently that he knocked the chair over backward.—Youth's Companion.

Trapped by Stomach.

During the year our hens had a very bad habit of laying in the horse mangers. One evening we found a large snake in the manger. During the day he had swallowed an egg which was in the manger and had then tried to cross to the next manger by way of a knot-hole. When half way through he discovered eggs on the other side of the partition. These he swallowed and trapped himself very securely. The first egg kept him from going forward and the last eggs kept him from going back.—Farm Journal.

Skulking figures circled cautiously and with light tread about a house on the north side. Close observation disclosed that the figures wore on their left breasts the pointed stars of officers of the law. Inside the house the sound of shuffled cards, muffled laughter, and light conversation could be heard. The moon hung low in the sky. All was peaceful. Abruptly, there came a knock at the door of the house.

The sounds on the inside of the house ceased and the door was opened. Before the startled eyes of the police raiding squad, led by Lieutenant Louis Johnson, were disclosed eight well-dressed women, all smiling graciously, and all engaged in the pleasant pastime and popular indoor sport of auction bridge.

"Aw, we were sent up here to get a poker game," Lieutenant Johnson explained, in substance. "We can't arrest any bridge players."—Indianapolis News.

To Be an Orator.

The Rev. Daniel J. Mannix, archbishop of Australia, gave some sensible advice to all young men who aspire to be public speakers. He said he had always desired to be a great orator, but he found that he could not, and now he no longer strives toward this object. He advises all who aim at a profession wherein they must seek to influence others by their voice, "not to aim for oratorical elegance, but to simply make their language mirror their thought. Do not exaggerate," he continues. "Use critical judgment." The greatest public speakers are not those who impress you with the beauty of their performance, but those who convince you by their simplicity, directness and sincerity.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

He was a newly admitted member of the ranks of married men and after having behaved himself for a period long enough to cause amusement to all those who had known him in the old days he broke out. He was on his way home very much under the weather and growing more timid as his street neared, says a New York Sun writer.

"What'll I do?" he asked thickly of his companion in crime, a veteran benedict.

"Throw your hat in first," said the old-timer. "If it comes out, beat it; if not, follow it in."

The advice was acted upon literally and now the newly admitted member and the old veteran are on the outs. The hat hung into the dining room landed on the table, broke two glasses, split a bottle of catsup on the floor and ruined the carpet, upset the table oil lamp and almost set fire to the house.

were working almost in total darkness, apparently knowing their ground.

AIM TO REPEAL PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—A bill to repeal the state prohibition enforcement act was introduced in Illinois legislature today by Representative O'Grady, Chicago, and was sent to committee today.

Even if put to a referendum as to passage, the bill has no chance of passing, legislative leaders pointed out. Sufficient time does not remain for its consideration, as the legislature adjourns next week. The legislature has defeated several less important wet bills.

SAY BORDER SITUATION IS "GREATLY EXAGGERATED"

Washington, June 8.—With bootleggers operating boldly on the Canadian border of New York bringing in thousands of gallons of liquor, federal prohibition officials here treated the situation with apparent indifference, indicating that reports of the border situation had been "greatly exaggerated."

If the federal government has any plans for meeting the situation, and prohibition Commissioner Haynes says he has none—officials are guarding them in strictest secrecy.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, chief of enforcement, as Haynes' superior declared that he knows of no plans of federal action, asserting that there is apparently no need to stiffen federal ranks in New York or Haynes would have reported it to him.

Mellon, however, considers border running as the threatening feature of the New York situation.

CHICAGO, BOOTLEGGERS PARADISE TODAY

Chicago, June 8.—Chicago was turned into a bootleggers' paradise today when it became known that more than 25 prohibition agents had been called in for office work. Only two or three federal agents remained in the field, according to best authority, and rum runners began mobilizing for a quick harvest on liquor from the Canadian border, reports here said.

William Moss, chief prohibition agent, recently transferred here with orders to drive bootleggers out of Chicago, said that the vast amount of office work with which the bureau is far behind made calling in the men necessary.

PROHIBITION, SUBJECT IN VOTERS CAMPAIGN

(Copyright 1923 by United Press) Washington, June 8.—Millions of dollars will be spent in two gigantic campaigns of publicity and organization to line up the voters of the country on one side or the other of the new prohibition struggle.

The result will be a national revival in 1924 of the question of modifying the Volstead law to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wines.

Under the leadership of the Anti-Saloon League, the dries will shortly sound a rallying call to fit a "war chest" in the approaching fight against the Volstead law and to force congress by a show of public opinion to appropriate more money for enforcement.

Headed by the Association against Prohibition, the wets will make a similar fight and will make a similar drive for public opinion to permit amendment of the Volstead act to permit beer and wine.

Congress will be "too busy" to make any change in the Volstead law affecting the status of beer and wines. It is extremely unlikely that it will amend the enforcement law at all, even to clarify the international situation created by protests of seven maritime powers against new American regulations barring ships stores liquor.

The wets are trying to get to the people before the politicians in congress attempt to get to them. The congress elected in 1924 may bring back beer and wine; the congress in 1923 will not even take a step in that direction.

That is why dry leaders are not greatly disturbed by developments in New York, Wisconsin, Illinois and other states where repeal of state enforcement laws has occurred. They are confident that a referendum will support a "100 per cent dry" enforcement of the Volstead act just as it stands.

CURB BROKERS FACE BANKRUPTCY

(By United Press)

New York, June 8.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in United States district court here today against L. L. Winkelman & Company, curb brokers with offices in New York and other large cities. The firm is a member of the New York Curb Market and the Consolidated Stock Exchange. The creditors who filed the petition are the Sorg Company, Inc., Charles E. Biddle, and Packard Bros., Inc.

Wall Street Gets Another Shock

New York, June 8.—Wall Street, already trembling from a series of sensational failures, was given another shock today by the close of the doors of L. L. Winkelman & Company, big curb brokers with offices in New York and principal cities of the country.

Winkelman & Company is the third largest brokerage house on the curb market, Jones & Baker, the largest, collapsed only a few days ago.

On petition of three creditors, Judge Bondy, of the United States district court, appointed Charles Livingstone as receiver for the company.

Liabilities were placed at $1,750,000 and assets at $1,500,000 in the petition.

were working almost in total darkness, apparently knowing their ground.

AIM TO REPEAL PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Springfield, Ill., June 8.—A bill to repeal the state prohibition enforcement act was introduced in Illinois legislature today by Representative O'Grady, Chicago, and was sent to committee today.

Even if put to a referendum as to passage, the bill has no chance of passing, legislative leaders pointed out. Sufficient time does not remain for its consideration, as the legislature adjourns next week. The legislature has defeated several less important wet bills.

SAY BORDER SITUATION IS "GREATLY EXAGGERATED"

Washington, June 8.—With bootleggers operating boldly on the Canadian border of New York bringing in thousands of gallons of liquor, federal prohibition officials here treated the situation with apparent indifference, indicating that reports of the border situation had been "greatly exaggerated."

If the federal government has any plans for meeting the situation—and prohibition Commissioner Haynes says he has none—officials are guarding them in strictest secrecy.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, chief of enforcement, as Haynes' superior declared that he knows of no plans of federal action, asserting that there is apparently no need to stiffen federal ranks in New York or Haynes would have reported it to him.

Mellon, however, considers border running as the threatening feature of the New York situation.

CHICAGO, BOOTLEGGERS PARADISE TODAY

Chicago, June 8.—Chicago was turned into a bootleggers' paradise today when it became known that more than 25 prohibition agents had been called in for office work. Only two or three federal agents remained in the field, according to best authority, and rum runners began mobilizing for a quick harvest on liquor from the Canadian border, reports here said.

William Moss, chief prohibition agent, recently transferred here with orders to drive bootleggers out of Chicago, said that the vast amount of office work with which the bureau is far behind made calling in the men necessary.

PROHIBITION, SUBJECT IN VOTERS CAMPAIGN

(Copyright 1923 by United Press) Washington, June 8.—Millions of dollars will be spent in two gigantic campaigns of publicity and organization to line up the voters of the country on one side or the other of the new prohibition struggle.

The result will be a national revival in 1924 of the question of modifying the Volstead law to permit the manufacture and sale of beer and light wines.

Under the leadership of the Anti-Saloon League, the dries will shortly sound a rallying call to fit a "war chest" in the approaching fight against the Volstead law and to force congress by a show of public opinion to appropriate more money for enforcement.

Headed by the Association against Prohibition, the wets will make a similar fight and will make a similar drive for public opinion to permit amendment of the Volstead act to permit beer and wine.

Congress will be "too busy" to make any change in the Volstead law affecting the status of beer and wines. It is extremely unlikely that it will amend the enforcement law at all, even to clarify the international situation created by protests of seven maritime powers against new American regulations barring ships stores liquor.

The wets are trying to get to the people before the politicians in congress attempt to get to them. The congress elected in 1924 may bring back beer and wine; the congress in 1923 will not even take a step in that direction.

That is why dry leaders are not greatly disturbed by developments in New York, Wisconsin, Illinois and other states where repeal of state enforcement laws has occurred. They are confident that a referendum will support a "100 per cent dry" enforcement of the Volstead act just as it stands.

GIVES AN ADDRESS ON SALESMANSHIP

Dr. F. Osten-Sacken of Chicago Spoke at Brainerd Civic & Commerce Association

BRINGS OUT INTERESTING DATA

"Business Building." Said the Speaker. "Depended on Constructive Salesmanship"

Dr. F. Osten-Sacken, official lecturer for the Sheldon school, International Business Science Society, Chicago, gave an instructive and interesting address at the Civic & Commerce Association parlors Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Brainerd Business Mens Association, using as his subject "Building Business on Constructive Salesmanship." R. R. Wise introduced the speaker.

The doctor has made a thorough study of human nature during his extensive travels in Europe and America, and knows conditions as they exist in all walks of life.

He has delivered courses of lectures to many business organizations and large sales forces in Chicago and elsewhere, winning an enviable reputation as one of the most efficient teachers of salesmanship in this country.

He said in part:

As new problems arise, new methods are demanded in the conduct of business. Commercial activities are centered on business building. There is no standstill in nature; everything either grows or deteriorates. Business that does not grow, is on the downward grade. The object of business building is to "secure progressively profitable patronage;" that is to obtain and retain customers until they become so interested in our business that they not only remain patrons, but, in turn, interest others in trading with us.

Business building depends on constructive salesmanship. As a general principle, everybody is a salesman; it is a universal principle.

The object of salesmanship is "persuasion to purchase at a profit that which is for sale." It is not simple order taking, to sell the thing one asks for; but to direct the mind and the interest of the purchaser to other things for sale, until not only one profit is made but several.

There are four factors in every sale: The salesman, the goods, the prospect and the meeting of the minds; which means the close of the transaction.

I. The Salesman: He must realize that business is no longer a cold-blooded proposition. "Service" should be the very heart of every sales transaction; service based on quality, quantity, and mode of conduct, including business etiquette.

The salesman must develop:

1. Efficiency: The less supervision he needs, the higher will be his efficiency value; on the other hand, the more supervision he requires, the lower will be his efficiency value. He should develop self-dependence. He must be a "self-starter", instead of having the boss crank him up from time to time.

2. Basic Faculties: The intellect into intellectual power; the ability of judgment and planning his work carefully. The sensibilities into emotive powers, or reliability; his body into physical power or endurance and accuracy. His will into will power, which means action and speed.

- II. The Goods: The salesman must know the goods he sells; he must be able to analyze them; he must have confidence in the goods, as well as in himself.

- III. The Prospect: The salesman must be able to find the prospect. He must learn to know the character of his prospect. He must first sell himself to himself; then to the prospect—inspire confidence; he must sell himself to the goods—with confidence in himself and the goods; having aroused in the prospect confidence in himself, it is not difficult to sell the prospect to the goods.

IV. The Meeting of the Minds: The meeting of the mind of the prospect with the mind of the salesman, means the sale. There are six distinct steps to every sale:

1. The salesman must gain "favorable attention." If he knows the principal characteristics of his prospects, it will find a way to gain that attention. His approach should be made in a narrative way. Hammering right from the start does not often get the results desired. When you hold a nail between your fingers, you do not try to drive it with a tremendous blow at first; you might hit and crush your fingers instead.

2. To create "interest," is the next step. Watch your customers carefully, while you go on with your story, still using the narrative method. When you have created the interest sufficiently, and have discovered his "motive", in buying, whether it be money, caution, protection, pride, or weakness, go on to the next step.

3. Arouse, along the way of his motive in buying, an "appreciation of his value" to him. Not in a general way, but to him in particular. This is the time to turn into a descriptive way of talking. Analyze the goods to him, showing him in what way the article will make him money, or give him protection, or serve his pride, or whatever his motive in buying may be. If he is weak and you are sure the article will give him what he needs, and only then play on his weakness. Show him why your goods will serve his purpose better than those of your competitor. When you have gained your object, the next step is to

4. Create His "Desire." And here

it is where your persuasive power must come into play. Be enthusiastic yourself, and you will gain corresponding enthusiasm in your prospect. Now "get at him" with increased energy. Begin your "drive"; don't allow any interruption at this stage of the "game"; hit harder and harder, until desire changes into

5. "Decision." Stick to him from now on. His mind is made up, his "mental" action has been taken; it is up to you now to get him to take decisive "physical" action.

6. "Action." The psychological moment has arrived. Don't doubt your power now. You can do it and you will do it. Do not say anything which might have a suggestion of doubt; do not ask any questions; give him no chance to say "no". Make assertions; show him that you are sure of yourself, and that you know. If you have right along led him to assent, without giving him an opening to say "no", you have created a habit of assenting, of agreeing with you. And habit is strong with the average man. Take it for granted that your prospect has decided favorably. Don't ask the primary question, if ask you must. Ask him a secondary question. There are many of these. "Of course, you will want to pay cash and take advantage of the discount." (A gentle flattery). "Shall I send you a gross." "Will you have it sent by freight or express?" "Will you need it immediately or next week?" "Will you have it all in one shipment, or shall we hold part of it to suit your convenience?" In whatever way your prospect answers, the sale is made anyway. Your constructive imagination will come to play here.

These six steps may be used consciously at first; later they will be taken consciously or subconsciously. But they must be taken always.

In conclusion, remember that you are a "partner" of your firm; their success means your success, their increasing profits your increasing pay check.

If you want equal opportunity,

you must assume equal responsibility.

GILT Edge is a House Paint that is double ground—that is, ground twice in the process of making. This gives it better body, makes it spread smoother and cover more surface per gallon. It also produces a fine enamel-like surface, which means greater weather resistance and more thorough protection to your property.

Only the best of materials go into Gilt Edge Paint—and this is one of the many reasons why one job with Gilt Edge is equal to three jobs with ordinary paint. It goes farther, does better work and is decidedly more economical. Gilt Edge Paint is particularly adapted to the Northwest climate.

When you paint your interior walls use Gilt Edge "Vel-Vet Sheen" for a fine half-gloss finish which looks beautiful and can be washed. Then give your floors and woodwork a coat of Gilt Edge "Glazine" and you have a good job well done.

GIVES AN ADDRESS ON SALESMANSHIP

Dr. F. Osten-Sacken of Chicago Spoke at Brainerd Civic & Commerce Association

BRINGS OUT INTERESTING DATA

"Business Building," Said the Speaker," Depended on Constructive Salesmanship

Dr. F. Osten-Sacken, official lecturer for the Sheldon school, International Business Science Society, Chicago, gave an instructive and interesting address at the Civic & Commerce Association parlors Thursday evening, under the auspices of the Brainerd Business Mens Association, using as his subject
"Building Business on Constructive Salesmanship." R. R. Wise introduced the speaker.

The doctor has made a thorough study of human nature during his extensive travels in Europe and America, and knows conditions as they exist in all walks of life.

He has delivered courses of lectures to many business organizations and large sales forces in Chicago and elsewhere, winning an enviable reputation as one of the most efficient teachers of salesmanship in this country.

He said in part:

As new problems arise, new methods are demanded in the conduct of business. Commercial activities are centered on business building. There is no standstill in nature; everything either grows or deteriorates.
Business that does not grow, is on the downward grade. The object of business building is to "secure progressively profitable patronage," that is to obtain and retain customers until they become so interested in our business that they not only remain patrons, but, in turn, interest others in trading with us.

Business building depends on constructive salesmanship. As a general principle, everybody is a salesman; it is a universal principle.

The object of salesmanship is "persuasion to purchase at a profit that which is for sale." It is not simple order taking, to sell the thing one asks for; but to direct the mind and the interest of the purchaser to other things for sale, until not only one profit is made but several.

There are four factors in every sale: The salesman, the goods, the prospect and the meeting of the minds; which means the close of the transaction.

I. The Salesman: He must realize that business is no longer a cold-blooded proposition. "Service" should be the very heart of every sales transaction; service based on quality, quantity, and mode of conduct, including business etiquette.

The salesman must develop:
1. Efficiency: The less supervision he needs, the higher will be his efficiency value; on the other hand, the more supervision he requires,
the lower will be his efficiency value.
He should develop self-dependence.
He must be a "self-starter", instead of having the boss crank him up from time to time.

2. Basic Faculties: The intellect into intellectual power; the ability of judgment and planning his work carefully. The sensibilities into emotive powers, or reliability; his body into physical power or endurance and accuracy. His will into will power, which means action and speed.

II. The Goods: The salesman must know the goods he sells; he must be able to analyze them; he must have confidence in the goods, as well as in himself.

III. The Prospect: The salesman must be able to find the prospect.
He must learn to know the character of his prospect. He must first sell himself to himself; then to the prospect—inspire confidence; he must sell himself to the goods—with confidence in himself and the goods; having aroused in the prospect confidence in himself, it is not difficult to sell the prospect to the goods.

IV. The Meeting of the Minds:
The meeting of the mind of the prospect with the mind of the salesman, means the sale. There are six distinct steps to every sale:

1. The salesman must gain "favorable attention." If he knows the principal characteristics of his prospects, it will find a way to gain that attention. His approach should be made in a narrative way, Hammering right from the start does not often get the results desired. When you hold a nail between two fingers, you do not try to drive it with a tremendous blow at first; you might hit and crush your fingers instead.

2. To create "interest," is the next step. Watch your customers carefully, while you go on with your story, still using the narrative method. When you have created the interest sufficiently, and have discovered his "motive", in buying, whether it be money, caution, protection, pride, or weakness, go on to the next step.

3. Arouse, along the way of his motive in buying, an "appreciation of hte value" to him. Not in a general way, but to him in particular.
This is the time to turn into a descriptive way of talking. Analyze the goods to him, showing him in what way the article will make him money, or give him protection, or serve his pride, or whatever his motive in buying may be. If he is weak and you are sure the article will give him what he needs, and only then play on his weakness. Show him why your goods will serve his purpose better than those of your competitor. When you have gained your object, the next step is to

4. Create His "Desire." And here

it is where your persuasive power must come into play. Be enthusiastic yourself, and you will gain corresponding enthusiasm in your prospect. Now "get at him" with increased energy. Begin your "drive"; don't allow any interruption at this stage of the "game"; hit harder and harder, until desire changes into

5. "Decision." Stick to him from now on. His mind is made up, his "mental" action has been taken;
it is up to you now to get him to take decisive "physical" action.

6. "Action." The psychological moment has arrived. Don't doubt your power now. You can do it and you will do it. Do not say anything which might have a suggestion of doubt; do not ask any questions;
give him no chance to say "no".
Make assertions; show him that you are sure of yourself, and that you know. If you have right along led him to assent, without giving him an opening to say "no", you have created a habit of assenting, of agreeing with you. And habit is strong with the average man. Take it for granted that your prospect has decided favorably. Don't ask the primary question, if ask you must. Ask him a secondary question. There are many of these. "Of course, you will want to pay cash and take advantage of the discount." (A gentle flattery).
"Shall I send you a gross." "Will you have it sent by freight or express?" "Will you need it immediately or next week?" "Will you have it all in one shipment, or shall we hold part of it to suit your convenience?" In whatever way your prospect answers, the sale is made anyway. Your constructive imagination will come into play here.

These six steps may be used consciously at first; later they will be taken consciously or subconsciously.
But they must be taken always.
In conclusion, remember that you are a "partner" of your firm; their success means your success, their increasing profits your increasing paycheck.

If you want equal opportunity,

you must assume equal responsibility.

GILT Edge is a House Paint that is double ground—that is, ground twice in the process of making. This gives it better body, makes it spread smoother and cover more surface per gallon. It also produces a fine enamel-like surface, which means greater weather resistance and more thorough protection to your property.

Only the best of materials go into Gilt Edge Paint—and this is one of the many reasons why one job with Gilt Edge is equal to three jobs with ordinary paint. It goes farther, does better work and is decidedly more economical. Gilt Edge Paint is particularly adapted to the Northwest climate.

When you paint your interior walls use Gilt Edge "Vel-Vet Sheen" for a fine half-gloss finish which looks beautiful and can be washed. Then give your floors and woodwork a coat of Gilt Edge "Glazine" and you have a good job well done.

Tell your dealer it must be "Gilt Edge"

MAY CLOSE THE Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

Board of Directors Faced With Alternative After 35 Years Service

HEAVY OVERHEAD BEING FACED

Northern Pacific Railway Co., Has Been Generous, Contributing $500 Annually Towards Support.

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. at a meeting Thursday voted to close that institution, which has been serving the younger generation for approximately thirty-five years.

This action was deemed necessary, on account of the inability to meet the running expenses of the association, a matter which has been causing anxiety for some time.

The closing date was postponed until June 20th, in order to give citizens and members of the Y. M. C. A. an opportunity to meet and express themselves on this matter. For this purpose a meeting will be called at the "Y" on next Wednesday evening, June 13th, at 8 o'clock, and it is the hope of the board that a representative gathering may be had, and that those who attend will be ready to submit proposals for retaining the organization.

The railway company is now giving five hundred dollars per year toward the maintenance of the association, in addition to furnishing light and fuel free. It is felt that this is an assistance which if stopped even for the present, might never be obtainable again, and therefore should be made use of.

The directors have asked for recommendations from the state Y. M. C. A. but this organization has very few suggestions to make, so that it is up to the people of the city to do it, and to come to a conclusion, one way or the other, on next Wednesday evening.

Finger Ring Oldest Ornament.

The finger ring is the oldest ornament. In Genesis Joseph is mentioned as receiving a ring from Pharaoh. This was about 1450 B. C. They have been found on mummies of an earlier date. Homer mentions "bracelets and chains" on his heroes, but does not mention rings. Homer was about 1000 B. C.

KEEP BRAINERD LAWNS GREEN

H. F. Michael Brought Up Matter at Recent Meeting of Rotary Club

SPRINKLING RATE IS LOW ONE

From $3 to $5 Will Pay For All The Water So Used in Summer

At the meeting of the Rotary club on last Friday, H. F. Michael brought up a matter very important if Brainerd is to retain its beautiful lawns throughout the summer.

Mr. Michael spoke of the lack of interest shown in the past year by property owners in maintaining pretty lawns, and lays this fact to the impression under which citizens are laboring that it costs too much for water required to keep our sandy soil in condition and the lawns green during the summer months.

This, Mr. Michael points out, is a mistake, because during the months of May, June, July, August and September, the rate for water used in sprinkling is only ten cents per thousand gallons.

The quantity for which this rate is charged is determined by taking all of the water used in excess of the patron's normal consumption as a basis for the ten-cent rate. The normal consumption is billed at fifty cents, so that it is estimated that an investment of from three to five dollars will pay for all of the water used the whole summer for sprinkling.

Not to spend this much on beautifying the lawns means a lack of civic as well as personal pride, for the result would be a brown appearing lawn which would soon kill out the grass and give weeds and quack grass an opportunity to start. Once the lawn grass has been killed, considerable time is required to get a new supply growing again.

Staples Man Weds Brainerd Young Woman

(From Staples World)

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Marie Bressemer of Brainerd and Pequot, Minn., and Mr. Clifford Charles Sweet Jr., son of Clifford Sweet Sr., of this city, took place at the German Lutheran parsonage at Brainerd, last Saturday, June 2, at nine thirty o'clock in the morning. Reverend Rathert officiated. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Mitchell, as matron and best man, also by Miss Grace Sweet, sister of the bridegroom and Mr. Joseph Yalch of Brainerd.

The bride wore an elaborate gown of tan canton crepe with hat to match and carried a large bouquet of beautiful white roses. Mrs. Mitchell's gown was pale blue satin and carried blue satin flowers.

After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the home of Dr. R. A. Beise where the wedding breakfast was served. Following the breakfast, the Misses Ruth Beise and Elizabeth Johnstone drove the newlyweds to the station from whence they departed amid a serenade of old shoes, rice and white ribbons together with the good wishes of the wedding guests. Miss Grace Sweet accompanied them back to Staples.

The same evening Mr. and Mrs. Sweet departed for a wedding trip to Iowa. On their return, they will be at home to their friends in Brainerd, where Mr. Sweet is in the employ of the Northern Pacific. Their Staples friends join in wishing the newly married couple all success and happiness.

More Cars Shake Themselves to Pieces Than Ever Wear Out

Charge that up to vibration.

Vibration causes cars to grow old prematurely by racking their chassis, destroying the "metal life" of vital parts, loosening up their bodies and causing squeaks and rattles. Frequent, costly repairs are the result.

The Studebaker Light-Six is freer from vibration than any car of its approximate size or weight yet produced.

This has been accomplished largely by a complete machining of the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces—a practice used by Studebaker exclusively on cars at this price and found only on a very few other cars whose selling prices are from three to ten times as high as the Light-Six.

There are 61 precision operations in the manufacture of the crankshaft alone, 40 of which range in accuracy from one-quarter thousandth to one thousandth of an inch.

The Light-Six motor embodies the most advanced design known to automobile construction. And no chassis at any price is built to more exacting standards of materials and workmanship.

Aside from its mechanical excellence and its consequent long life, the Light-Six is handsome in design, extremely comfortable, sturdy, and we believe the most economical car to buy and operate ever offered at $975 or anywhere near this figure.

Its substantial all-steel body, one-piece, rain-proof windshield, ten-inch cushions upholstered in genuine leather, cowl lamps—these are among many features heretofore to be had only in higher-priced cars.

For 71 years the name Studebaker has stood for integrity, quality and value.

Board of Directors Faced With Alternative After 35 Years Service

HEAVY OVERHEAD BEING FACED

Northern Pacific Railway Co., Has Been Generous, Contributing $500 Annually Towards Support

The board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. at a meeting Thursday voted to close that institution, which has been serving the younger generation for approximately thirty-five years.

This action was deemed necessary on account of the inability to meet the running expenses of the association, a matter which has been causing anxiety for some time.

The closing date was postponed until June 20th, in order to give citizens and members of the Y. M. C. A. an opportunity to meet and express themselves on this matter. For this purpose a meeting will be called at the "Y" on next Wednesday evening, June 13th, at 8 o'clock, and it is the hope of the board that a representative gathering may be had, and that those who attend will be ready to submit proposals for retaining the organization.

The railway company is now giving five hundred dollars per year toward the maintenance of the association, in addition to furnishing light and fuel free. It is felt that this is an assistance which if stopped even for the present, might never be obtainable again, and therefore should be made use of.

The directors have asked for recommendations from the state Y. M. C. A. but this organization has very few suggestions to make, so that it is felt that if anything is done, it is up to the people of the city to do it, and to come to a conclusion, one way or the other, on next Wednesday evening.

KEEP BRAINERD LAWNS GREEN

H. F. Michael Brought Up Matter at Recent Meeting of Rotary Club

SPRINKLING RATE IS LOW ONE

From $3 to $5 Will Pay For All The Water So Used in Summer

At the meeting of the Rotary club on last Friday, H. F. Michael brought up a matter very important if Brainerd is to retain its beautiful lawns throughout the summer.

Mr. Michael spoke of the lack of interest shown in the past year by property owners in maintaining pretty lawns, and lays this fact to the impression under which citizens are laboring that it costs too much for water required to keep our sandy soil in condition and the lawns green during the summer months.

This, Mr. Michael points out, is a mistake, because during the months of May, June, July, August and September, the rate for water used in sprinkling is only ten cents per thousand gallons.

The quantity for which this rate is charged is determined by taking all of the water used in excess of the patron's normal consumption as a basis for the ten cent rate. The normal consumption is billed at fifty cents, so that it is estimated that an investment of from three to five dollars will pay for all of the water used the whole summer for sprinkling.

Not to spend this much on beautifying the lawns means a lack of civic as well as personal pride, for the result would be a brown appearing lawn which would soon kill out the grass and give weeds and quack grass an opportunity to start. Once the lawn grass has been killed, considerable time is required to get a new supply growing again.

MAY CHANGE RULES FOR 'A' SCORING

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, June 8.—Since the University of California succeeded in winning its third straight track and field championship, the officials of the intercollegiate association apparently have decided that something should be done about it.

The intercollegiate association, exclusively an eastern-ruled organization, in suggesting some changes in the program and the method of scoring for championship meets in the future, wants it understood that it is not seeking to place obstacles in the way for more California victories.

In considering the motives behind the suggested changes the east is entitled to its own opinion and so is the Pacific Coast.

If the Californians have a poor memory, they may hold the view that the motive is not one of discrimination against them, and if they hold an opinion to the contrary, they no doubt will be good enough sports to keep it to themselves.

Because the California team won the intercollegiate title three times in succession with a team composed almost entirely of field stars, it is not necessary that something should be done about it.

Some baseball teams win games on speed and others on power and it follows that a track team might just as well win with power in the field as with speed on the track.

From a strictly neutral standpoint, however, it is logical that the system of scoring points should be changed to place a higher valuation on first place.

The British system of scoring only one point in each event for the winner works out acceptably in dual meets where one team can beat another five events to four events or the like, but it cannot be applied to meets in which a score or more teams are competing. This system was tried out for fourteen years by the intercollegiate association and it was finally dropped as unsatisfactory.

The present system of scoring gives five points for first place, four for second, three for third, two for fourth and one for fifth.

Realizing that first place ought to be worth winning, it might be better to award seven points for first place, five for second, three for third and so on.

MILL WORKER WINS FORTUNE ON PAPYRUS

London, June 8.—A little sweepstakes ticket, combined with derby luck, has placed a fortune of 32,000 pounds in the lap of a Yorkshire woman mill worker, Mrs. Nellie Ford, who drew Papyrus in the Otley club's 80,000 sweepstakes, in which more than 200,000 players had taken a chance. Mrs. Ford is described as a hardworking woman who has spent most of her life working in a mill in order to help support her large family. Tuesday she was offered 3,000 for her chance but refused, as she had a dream that fortune awaited her.

The second prize of 16,000 pounds, and the third of 8,000 pounds were won by two men of moderate means. Several others have been lifted from penury to easy street by the luck of drawing winning horses in the numerous other sweepstakes held in England.

It is estimated 250,000 pounds sterling has been won in the big public sweepstakes, while huge sums have changed hands through those conducted on a smaller basis.

LAW MUST BE OBEYED IN SHELBY OR FIGHT WILL BE OFF, THREAT

Helena, Mont., June 9.—If the local authorities at Shelby continue to indicate that they are either unable or unwilling to enforce the law, there shall be no match between Dempsey and Gibbons on July 4," was the statement made in a telephone message from Attorney General W. D. Rankin to the authorities in Shelby yesterday.

Reports of lawlessness at Shelby in connection with the activities preceding the heavyweight championship fight, set for July 4, prompted the attorney general to issue sharp instructions to Shelby authorities declaring that if the proposed fight is permitted to become a public nuisance it will be stopped by the legal department of the state.

RARE EAGLE IN LONDON ZOO

New Arrival Has Easy Time of It, if He Can Forget He is a Prisoner.

"Tim," a large white-tailed sea eagle from Mesopotamia, presented by Sir Percy Cox, has just arrived at the zoo and is vying with the sea lions in the profitable pastime of catching fish thrown by the keeper.

Though the newcomer is the sole representative of his species in the garden of the white-tailed sea eagle was, at one time, fairly common in England as far south as the Lake district.

Now it is verging on extinction in these islands, there being only a few pairs left, which nest on the inaccessible cliffs of the west of Scotland and Ireland.

To look at this feathered giant of the air, you would think him particularly fierce and unapproachable, but "Tim's" appearance is deceptive, for he is really quite tame.

Under the tuition of his keeper, he is speedily becoming proficient in the art of aerial sprat-catching—which probably accounts for his docility.

"Tim" seems wise enough to realize that catching "flying fish" is better than swooping at keeper's caps, as some of his kindred do, and for his good conduct he is occasionally rewarded with a nice home-bred rat, by way of a change.

Engles, however, are treacherous birds, and the keeper is quite as watchful as "Tim" when in his company.—A. E. H., in London Daily Chronicle.

MAY CHANGE RULES FOR 'A' SCORING

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, June 8.—Since the University of California succeeded in winning its third straight track and field championship, the officials of the intercollegiate association apparently have decided that something should be done about it.

The intercollegiate association, exclusively an eastern-ruled organization, in suggesting some changes in the program and the method of scoring for championship meets in the future, wants it understood that it is not seeking to place obstacles in the way for more California victories.

In considering the motives behind the suggested changes the east is entitled to its own opinion and so is the Pacific Coast.

If the Californians have a poor memory, they may hold the view that the motive is not one of discrimination against them, and if they hold an opinion to the contrary, they no doubt will be good enough sports to keep it to themselves.

Because the California team won the intercollegiate title three times in succession with a team composed almost entirely of field stars, it is not necessary that something should be done about it.

Some baseball teams win games on speed and others on power and it follows that a track team might just as well win with power in the field as with speed on the track.

From a strictly neutral standpoint, however, it is logical that the system of scoring points should be changed to place a higher valuation on first place.

The British system of scoring only one point in each event for the winner works out acceptably in dual meets where one team can beat another five events to four events or the like, but it cannot be applied to meets in which a score or more teams are competing. This system was tried out for fourteen years by the intercollegiate association and it was finally dropped as unsatisfactory.

The present system of scoring gives five points for first place, four for second, three for third, two for fourth and one for fifth.

Realizing that first place ought to be worth winning, it might be better to award seven points for first place, five for second, three for third and so on.

Helena, Mont., June 9.—If the local authorities at Shelby continue to indicate that they are either unable or unwilling to enforce the law, there shall be no match between Dempsey and Gibbons on July 4," was the statement made in a telephone message from Attorney General W. Reports of lawlessness at Shelby in connection with the activities preceding the heavyweight championship fight, set for July 4, prompted the attorney general to issue sharp instructions to Shelby authorities declaring that if the proposed fight is permitted to become a public nuisance it will be stopped by the legal department of the state.
